Reading

- Capricorn was rising at your birth, which makes Saturn the ruler of your chart and sets the tone everything else is read against. An earth sign of the movable kind, it gives a temperament that is disciplined, realistic and prepared to wait — a climber who measures progress in decades.
- Your life moves in initiatives. You begin things readily, and the difficulty is finishing rather than starting.
- Saturn, your chart ruler, sits in the 12th house in Sagittarius. That places the centre of gravity of your life invested in what is out of sight: foreign places, seclusion, research, or the inner life. Ordinary visible achievement satisfies you less than it should.
- Its condition there is workable: in Sagittarius it acts effectively but takes its colour from its surroundings. The ruler of your self is neither reinforced nor obstructed; what it does depends heavily on the company it keeps and on the period running.
- You also have Rahu in the first house itself, sitting directly on the personality. Rahu adds ambition, an unconventional presence and an appetite for what is out of reach.
- Looking at what falls on the ascendant from elsewhere: Jupiter aspects the lagna, which protects it — you are given the benefit of the doubt more often than you notice; Ketu aspects it, which hardens it — there is pressure on the self from outside, and it has made you more capable than a comfortable chart would have.

Physique

Nakshatra	Dhanishta

Notes

- The earth quality of Capricorn rising tends toward a solid, well-set build that holds condition and tires slowly.
- The ascendant rises in Dhanishta, which refines the general picture — the finer features of manner and appearance follow that nakshatra rather than the sign.

Strengths

- The Capricorn signature itself is the asset here: the temperament is consistent, and consistency compounds over a life even where no single placement stands out.

Challenges

- Rahu in the first house — adds ambition, an unconventional presence and an appetite for what is out of reach, which others read more sharply than you intend it.

Reading

The Rahu Mahadasha runs from your 1st house in Capricorn, where Rahu is neutral. Rahu rules no sign, so this period has no house lordship of its own to work through. It gives the results of the house it occupies and of its dispositor instead — which is why a nodal Mahadasha is read more from placement than from ownership. Overall this reads as a mixed period: real gains in some areas and equally real costs in others.

Reading

The Ketu Mahadasha runs from your 7th house in Cancer, where Ketu is neutral. Ketu rules no sign, so this period has no house lordship of its own to work through. It gives the results of the house it occupies and of its dispositor instead — which is why a nodal Mahadasha is read more from placement than from ownership. Overall this reads as a mixed period: real gains in some areas and equally real costs in others.

Note

Over a thousand classical combinations were tested against this chart and 70 matched. That number is not a measure of fortune — most charts match several hundred, because the classical literature names a yoga for almost every planetary arrangement. What follows is the ones that carry weight, strongest first.

Cautionary note

Classical texts name adverse combinations as readily as favourable ones, and a chart almost always matches some of both — this one matches yogas for long life and for short life simultaneously. Read these as tendencies the rest of the chart either supports or cancels, never as verdicts on their own. Cancellation is the rule rather than the exception, and judging it is what an astrologer is for.
